JAP PLANES FAIL IN ATTACK ON NANKING

COUNCIL TO ASK COURT TO HOLD ELECTRIC FUNDS

Act To Impound Difference Between Rates Started By City Solicitor

SUIT OUTCOME AWAITED

Ordinance Already Accepted By Utility Company

Councilmen authorized the city solicitor Friday evening, to file a motion in common pleas court asking that funds equal to the difference between the light rates now being charged and those offered in the rate ordinance, passed by council and attacked with a referendum, be impounded until the outcome of the case is determined.

The matter was brought before council by C. A. Leist, father of Carl C. Leist, solicitor. The city solicitor is convalescing after an operation. He was unable to attend the meeting.

Mr. Leist explained that when the rates offered by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. were attacked with the referendum it prevented them from going into effect. The rate ordinance was passed by council on July 21 and later signed by Mayor W. J. Graham. It was accepted by the light company on Aug. 28.

On Aug. 31 a temporary restraining order was obtained in common pleas court by the utility preventing council from taking action on the referendum petitions. The injunction restrained the mayor from presenting the referendum petitions to council, council from voting an ordinance or resolution to provide for the submission of the ordinance to voters, and from certifying the petition to the board of elections.

Hearing on the restraining order has been assigned for Oct. 14 at 9 a. m. in common pleas court.

Mr. Leist told council that if it was determined the ordinance is effective the funds impounded would be paid to consumers. Should the ordinance be found not to be effective the funds would go to the light company.

The attorney believed counsel for the company would present no objection to the motion. All councilmen favored the filing of the motion.

Jury To Receive Damage Action During Afternoon

Delay in obtaining a witness Friday afternoon resulted in the $15,500 suit of George H. Roof, S. Pickaway street, against Wilson Hundley, York street, being continued into Saturday. The case was expected to reach the jury Saturday afternoon. The defendant rested at 10:30 a. m.

The action is based on an auto-pedestrian accident at Court and Main streets on Sept. 6, 1936 in which Mr. Roof was injured.

Warden Beaten in Alcatraz Strike

Hitler Stern as Duce, Party Reach Germany

MUNICH, Sept. 25—(UP)—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, greeting Premier Benito Mussolini on his arrival today, astonished people by his forbidding mien. Something seemed to annoy him, and he gave a stern public rebuke. The reason was not immediately known.

Hitler was entering the station as Mussolini's train arrived when it was noticed that he seemed furious. He approached the SS officer. The officer saluted. Hitler returned the salute curtly. He did not give the usual hand shake. Then he was seen to utter a rebuke in very sharp terms, to the SS leader's confusion. Hitler proceeded, while his adjutants took up the discussion with the still flustered SS man.

Arrived Triumphant
It was a triumphant arrival for Hitler's brother dictator. The cheers began as Mussolini's train clicked past east and south railroad stations and they rose to a thunder as he reached the main station.

Hitler, Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, foreign minister; Gen. Franz Ritter Von Epp, Nazi Bavarian leader, and may party officials were waiting, and Hitler stepped forward to greet Mussolini.

This was the second meeting of the Fascist Duce and the Nazi Fuehrer, political cousins and World War corporals in enemy armies. The first meeting was on Italian soil—shortly before Austrian Nazis murdered Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss and Mussolini marched an army to the Brenner pass for war with Germany.

Price of September corn was fixed at $1.10 1/2, a bushel, at which yesterday's trading closed.

All contracts for delivery of September corn, open at close of yesterday's trading, must be filled at this price, Board of Trade directors decreed.

The action, taken at the end of an 11-hour emergency directors' meeting, ended a spectacular "squeeze" which shot prices up to as high as $1.16 1/2.

Veteran observers said the action was the most drastic ever taken by the board in peace times. Last time such an order was issued was during the World War, when it was necessary to halt profiteering, it was said.

Directors suspended trading only after futile efforts to arrange a peace between the "long" and "short" interests battling for control.

JURY LIST NAMED TO HEAR OCTOBER DAMAGE ACTIONS

Twenty-five additional common pleas court jurors were drawn from the jury list Saturday morning to report for duty on Oct. 4. Court officials explained the additional jurors were necessary to hear damage actions pending against Mrs. Lella M. Johnson, of Williamsport, resulting from an auto accident on Route 22, on October 22. A jury in common pleas court this week returned a verdict of not guilty against Mrs. Johnson on a charge of failure to stop after an accident.

The suits pending are those of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reisinger and their daughter, Doris, of near Grange Hall. Mr. Reisinger sued for $7,935 damages, his wife $5,120, and the daughter, $1,571. As an answer and cross petition to Mr. Reisinger's suit, Mrs. Johnson asks $10,087.62 damages.

Folsom Riot Sunday Blamed For Inciting Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25—(UP)—A hundred inmates of Alcatraz Island prison sulked in their cells today on a "sitdown strike."

The penal colony seethed with unrest. Warden James B. Johnston was confined to his home from the effects of a beating administered by a life-term prisoner who sprang at him from an inspection line.

All 280 prisoners were locked in their quarters this morning. The crisis was expected when guards gave the customary work calls. The recalcitrant 100 were interviewed one at a time yesterday. Each refused to go to his place in the shops and was put in a cell.

All night the island remained in gloomy silence. Guards had no way of learning whether the convicts' tempers had changed overnight. If they refused to work today it was likely they would be put on bread and water diets, as convicts were in a similar demonstration in January, 1936.

Capone, Kelly Not Included
Population of the prison includes the worst offenders against the federal government—murderers, gang leaders, bank robbers and outlaws. It was announced that neither Al Capone, the Chicago gangster, nor George (Machine Gun) Kelly, midwestern hoodlum, who are two of the most notorious

ATHLETE, 17, DIES WHILE PLAYING ON HIGH ELEVEN

WAYNESBORO, Pa., Sept. 25—(UP)—Michael Slavik, 17, a substitute halfback for East Pike Run high school, collapsed and died on the football field yesterday while running interference for a teammate in a game against Carmichaels high school.

Physicians at Green county memorial hospital indicated Slavik died from a heart attack. Deputy coroners said an inquest would be held to determine the exact cause. Slavik had been in the game for only three plays. While running interference, he stumbled and fell. Teammates revived him only for a moment or so before he again collapsed.

Project of 14,000 Acres To Be Dedicated Oct. 16

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 25—The Ross-Hocking camp, located about 20 miles northwest of Chillicothe in Ross county, Ohio, and the state's first publicly-owned group camp, will be formally opened by a dedication service Saturday, Oct. 16.

This announcement was made here today by L. E. Sawyer, land use chief for the U. S. Department of Agriculture in five midwestern states and under whose direction the camp was developed. He explained that the Ross-Hocking Camp is located within the 14,000-acre Ross-Hocking Forestry project and is one of several developments destined to make the area more accessible to outdoor lovers in this part of Ohio.

TRAILER BREAKS LOOSE, KILLS THREE AT LORAIN

LORAIN, Sept. 25—(UP)—A large trailer broke loose from a truck near here yesterday, injuring three persons fatally.

The victims were Hans Kollin, 34; his wife, Harriet, 29, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ann Pitt, 55, all of Cleveland.

The truck driven by Veral Churchman, 36, Toledo, was passing Kollin's automobile. State highway patrolmen were informed that the coupling connecting the truck and trailer broke and the trailer struck Kollin's car.

SECOND ALARM SOUNDED

New Moves Seen As Snub For Powers' Plea

NANKING, Sept. 25—(UP)—Japanese war planes, remembering their raids on the national capital, met flaming death themselves today from mysterious new Chinese anti-aircraft guns.

Five planes of 27 that reached the city plunged in flames, according to official Chinese communiqués. Three, blazing, plunged to earth in sight of observers in the American embassy grounds.

(The United Press Shanghai bureau reported that 30 minutes after that raid a second air attack was sounded at Nanking.)

Nanking's people, feeling themselves to be the chief targets in the Japanese campaign, looked dubiously upward this morning as the skies began to clear. They had not long to wait for the raid they feared.

At 9 a. m. the alarm sounded. 12 planes arrive. Fifty minutes later, while thousands of people huddled in the city's bomb shelters and caves, 12 Japanese war planes appeared from the east.

They flew in a loose formation over the southern part of town. Then, one by one, they plunged into roaring power dives and began dropping bombs at 3,000 feet.

This time though they were not to have it all their own way. Shortly, each shot aimed with the utmost care the Chinese anti-aircraft guns went into action.

A Japanese plane was caught. There was a burst of smoke as a shell exploded. Then the airplane exploded. It was blown to pieces, apparently with part of its bombs. The biggest piece of it fell to the ground, a flaming streak which left a trail of dense black smoke behind it.

The surviving planes flew away. At 10:05 a second flight of 15 planes appeared from the south, turned and headed westward along a line that brought them near the waterworks and the adjacent American embassy. The planes, like the first ones, power dived to bomb the Hsiakwan section.

Again an anti-aircraft gun shell found its mark. One of the Japanese planes burst into flames and plunged down to the ground.

FISHING PARTY'S CAR FIGURES IN FATAL ACCIDENT

Word has been received of a fatal accident in which members of a Circleville fishing party figured in a Detroit suburb last Sunday morning. Miss Rose Koricic, 19, of Detroit, a bride-to-be, was hurt fatally when the automobile in which she was riding with Frank Suric, 21, collided with the automobile of Robert Norris, gasoline station operator, being driven by Fred Wittich, E. Main street candy maker.

Suric escaped serious injury as did Wittich and other members of the party. Both drivers were held for questioning, but were released after investigation.

SPANIARDS MOVE TO FORCE NAZIS, FASCISTS IN OPEN

LONDON, Sept. 25—(UP)—The Spanish Loyalist government, in a move calculated to force Germany and Italy to show their own attitude, has offered to send from Spain every foreign volunteer fighting for the Loyalist army, it was learned today.

If the Nationalists, supported by Italy and Germany, would send home their foreign "volunteers," the Loyalists said the Republican government would dismiss every foreigner in the Loyalist army.

This forceful diplomatic move, a direct follow up to the vigorous British-French "invitation" to Italy to withdraw her troops, was made as Premier Benito Mussolini arrived at Munich for a state visit to Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.

COUNTIANS MEET TO STUDY 'FED' POTATO PROGRAM

Pickaway county potato growers have been asked to attend a meeting in the Farm Bureau office, Tuesday, Sept. 28, at 8 p. m. to vote on the proposal of an acreage goal for potatoes harvested next year. This provision will be in connection with the 1938 Agricultural Conservation program. A majority of the potato growers must favor an acreage limit before it will be put into effect.

Paul Mattheas, county compliance agent under the farm conservation program, announced Saturday that the first check on compliance for the 1937 farm program is about two-thirds complete. To date there are 1,375 farms listed for checking. The second check will be started about Oct. 10. Following the second check applications for payment will be prepared.

The deadline for signing to participate in the 1937 program is Nov. 1. Plans are to be announced for the 1938 program during December.

TARLTON DRIVER JAILED FOR SPEEDING IN CITY

Harry James, of Tarlton, went to the county jail Friday afternoon when he failed to pay a fine of $5 and costs assessed in Squire H. O. Eveland's court for speeding on W. Union street.

Constable Walter Heise charged that he was going between 45 and 50 miles an hour.

PLANT VE DELAYED CITY 'DADS'

Council Unable to Take

BROWNE IN CONFERENCE

Utilities Commission Puts
Okeh on Wig-Wags

No further steps were taken by city council, Friday night, on the sewage disposal plant program.

Floyd G. Browne, sanitary engineer employed by council, said efforts to hold a meeting with officials of the Container Corporation on obtaining a site for the plant were delayed during the last week due to Robert L. Elkins, local plant manager, being on vacation. He believed a meeting could be arranged next week.

Council has selected a site at the rear of the company's plant for the disposal plant. The company has expressed willingness to co-operate with the city in providing a site.

Mr. Browne told council the formal offer of $61,363 from the Public Works Administration for the government's share of the project would probably be received by the city service director early next week. He said the city has 15 days in which to accept the allotment.

Compensation Discussed
The engineer held a lengthy session with councilmen concerning compensation for preparing plans for the plant. He was recently instructed to include the disposal of wastes of the company's plant in plans for the city's plant.

Councilmen instructed Mr. Browne to proceed with the preparation of plans for a plant to handle both the city's problem and straw-bale wastes and adjourned to meet next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. as a committee to consider additional steps in the program and the engineer's pay.

Railroad to Aot
Clerk Fred Nicholas reported to councilmen he had been informed the Utilities Commission has approved changes in crossing signals on the Norfolk & Western railroad as ordered by council. Wig-wag signals will be placed at all crossings with the exception of those at Main and Court streets. Gates will be maintained on the Court street crossing. Three watchmen will be placed on eight-hour shifts on the Main street crossing. When one of the men dies a wig-wag will be installed and operated during one shift. Eventually only the wig-wag will be used entirely. Council made the arrangement so crossing watchmen would not lose their positions by the change in signals.

Harry Steinhauser told council he hoped to have a plumbing code ordinance for consideration at the next regular meeting.

COUNTY TEAMS ASKED TO ENTER OCTOBER EVENTS

$1,700 In Prizes To Be Available For Best
Pullers

ASSOCIATION IN CHARGE

Six Drivers Showing Best
Ability To Be Honored

Pickaway county people attending the National Dairy Show Oct. 9-16 will see the officially designated National Horse-Pulling contest as a part of the program arranged for them.

Teams from this county are invited to compete, entries being received by Lloyd Burlingham, Dairy Show secretary, at his office in the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, Columbus.

The horse-pulling contest is conducted under the auspices of the Horse and Mule Association of America, rules and regulations of that organization being used. Prizes total $1,700.

For the first day, Oct. 11, the Franklin county championship contest is scheduled, for prizes aggregating $200.

Pairs under 3000 pounds weight, coming from all parts of the United States, will compete Oct. 12 and 13 for $800 in prizes. On Oct. 14 and 15 will come the competition for teams 3,000 pounds and over, their awards amounting to $700.

Then on the final day, Oct. 16, the four top teams in the lightweight division and an equal number of heavyweights will compete in the finals. All these contests will be between 1 and 5 p. m. daily in the coliseum.

In addition to the cash prizes, the Horse and Mule Association will award medals to the six drivers displaying the best horsemanship in handling their animals in the contest. First will be a gold medal, second silver, and the others bronze.

Good horsemanship, according to the association rules, is judged by well broken animals that drive quietly into position to be hitched, and stand still, without fussing or pulling. Till the driver, after he is on the seat, gives them the command to back, so that they can be hitched; they must also step forward on command, quietly, to tighten tugs and cable, and stop there; and then, at word of command, start together on the actual pull.

AT THE GRAND
Against the turbulent canvas of adventure and intrigue which forms the pulse-stirring background of "Lloyds of London," the picture that has startled two continents and which opens Sunday at the Grand Theatre, there stands out one of the great love stories of all time, when fierce courage and vengeful fury fought to the death for a love that flamed while the fate of an empire hung in the balance.

Pecked with the thrill of forbidden kisses that changed the destiny of a whole empire, as the fateful lovers forgot everything but that they were man and woman in each other's arms, the new Twentieth Century-Fox triumph tells the story of human passions that were inextricably woven with the course of history.

When Freddie Bartholomew, as young Jonathan Blake, and Douglas Scott, as the youthful Horatio Nelson, discover a plot to smother a ship and collect the insurance from Lloyds, the boyhood friends determine to warn "M. Lloyd" of the plot. At the last moment, Horatio's uncle takes him off to sea, and Freddie set out alone on the hundred-mile walk to London.

Harvard Senior Suicides
Following Party At Home

BROOKVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 25 — (UP) — Walter H. Atherton, 21-year-old Harvard university senior, a sun-tanned member of the wealthy, polo-playing Atherton family of Long Island, was a gay host at a dinner party at his father's mansion Thursday night. Twenty-four hours later he was dead — a bullet from his own automatic pistol in his brain.

PRESIDENT IS DETERMINED TO GAIN BALANCED BUDGET

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 — (UP) — President Roosevelt is determined to balance the budget this year even if more drastic economies than originally contemplated are necessary, it was learned today.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., called a treasury staff meeting this week with this in mind. He was reported to have used "simple but harsh" words in impressing his subordinates with the need for strictest economy.

FUNERAL SERVICE MONDAY
FOR JIMMY LEE QUINCE

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the home, 615 S. Scioto street, for Jimmy Lee Quince, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Quince, who died Friday of lockjaw. The Rev. V. E. McCoy will officiate. Burial will be in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

15 SILK SLIPS STOLEN
Theft of 15 silk slips valued at $1.98 each was reported to police by the J. C. Penney Co., Friday afternoon. The slips were stolen from a counter.

FARMING IT... BY WILLARD BOLTE

THE Illinois farmer shown in the top sketch had 45 tons of limestone to spread—and by using his head instead of his back he and one man finished the job in two days. First he built a loading platform. Then he built a tripod of planks to hold a rope pulley. Then he ran a 75-foot hay rope from his tractor—through the pulley—to a scraper—and the tractor did the rest of the job of loading in about 5 minutes per load.

The home-made trench silo windlass, shown on the left, lifts the silage out of the trench and swings it over the feedlot fence or dumps it into a wagon.

in the right hand illustration shows how tall it grew without fertilizer. When he applied 300 lbs. of limestone per acre in the drill he harvested 1,400 lbs. of hay (Fig. 2). And when he applied both lime and 60 lbs. of rock phosphate, he harvested 2,700 lbs. of hay per acre (Fig. 3).

A rig like that shown in the bottom sketch may soon be a common sight in pea fields and other crops that suffer from plant lice. A solution of nicotine is forced into the exhaust of the motor—turned into gas—and the gas blows out under a canvas sheet that drags over the growing crop. It is reported that such a rig will delouse an acre of peas in 20 minutes at a cost of approximately $4.00.

trol of the remainder of last year's corn crop. That corn is to be delivered next Monday.

The "long" interests bought up most of the available corn, hoping that when the time for delivery came they could command a higher price than they paid for it.

The "short" interests contracted to deliver September corn at prices at which they believed they could make a profit. Their problem became to buy corn at a lower price than that at which they had contracted to sell.

DAVIS TO DIRECT
CALL FOR 1937

Ray W. Davis, attorney, will be chairman of the Red Cross roll call for 1937.

His re-appointment to the position was announced Saturday by Carl C. Leist, chairman of the Pickaway County Red Cross chapter. Harry L. Bartholomew was appointed publicity chairman.

The drive opens Nov. 11 and continues to Thanksgiving.

LEGION MEMBERS SPEND
$6,500,000 IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 — (UP) — American Legion members spent approximately $6,500,000 in New York city during the legion convention, it was estimated today.

The figure was reached by Richard C. Burritt, executive director of the New York convention and Tourist Bureau after a check of hotels, entertainment, and business establishments.

Burritt estimated that 24.8 percent of every dollar the Legionnaire spent, or $1,364,000 went for lodging, laundry, tips, etc., and that the rest went for entertainment, merchandise and food.

650 Die In Hankow
Chinese authorities announced officially today that 50 persons were killed and 750 seriously wounded in a raid on Hankow, far up the Yangtze valley, yesterday. No count was made of those less seriously wounded.

Successive air alarms at Nanking today led foreign air force experts here to believe that Japanese were bombing all along the 250-mile route to Nanking.

prisoners, was involved in the strikes.

Warden Johnston remained in charge of the situation despite his injuries, which Dr. George Hess said were not serious. The warden said: "It appears to be an effort to draw attention to themselves and to stampede the Department of Justice into giving them more privileges and paroles as at other prisons."

Only meager details of the uprising were revealed. Alcatraz prisoners are public nonentities. They are held to the strictest routine, shut off from all news of the outside world, and rarely are their activities made public.

Nevertheless it is generally believed that they maintain a system of "grapevine" communication with outside affairs. Department of Justice authorities in Washington said that the demonstration here may have been inspired by news of the Folsom prison riot Sunday, in which the warden, a guard and two convicts were killed. Alcatraz guards took the strictest measures to prevent news of the Folsom outbreak from entering Alcatraz, because the tension among convicts is such that one riot inspires another.

There was a similarity in the Folsom riot and the manner that Burton Phillips, life-terminer from Wichita, Kan., sprang from a line yesterday and assaulted the warden with his fists. At Folsom, seven convicts rushed at Warden Clarence A. Larkin with knives and stabbed him 12 times. Phillips was unarmed.

Strike Several Days Old
The convicts' strike began several days ago, but the news was withheld. Yesterday, as the warden passed a line of men trembling with the excitement that had permeated the prison, Phillips attacked the little warden from behind. The line of men waved for an instant. Guards raised their rifles, sighted, and prepared to fire. But Phillips was subdued quickly and taken to solitary confinement.

Defenders Effective
It was astonishing to observe the fire of the anti-aircraft guns. They were fired sparingly, not excitedly, and they were fired with deadly effect.

Most of the small group of Americans who were at the embassy or went there when the alarm was given watched the entire raid from the embassy lawn or from the muddy roof of the large dugout which now occupies a corner of the lawn.

Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson remained at his desk during most of the raid, running to a window whenever the sound of planes showed that he could get a good view of the bombing.

Ten Chinese civilians were wounded in the International Settlement in Shanghai as the result of a heavy airplane bombing of the Chapei quarter, on the north side of Shanghai.

This seemed to be the Japanese reply to American, British, French and other foreign protests against the merciless bombing campaign which the resistance of China's army has brought on the country.

A Japanese spokesman said today of the bombing campaign: "It is very deplorable that the world thinks the Japanese are bombing Chinese cities indiscriminately. We are not Chinese non-combatant casualties at Nanking are not so great as originally reported. Damage to foreign property has been very small. We repeat that we are not making war on non-combatants."

More Raids Due
The spokesman added that as the weather was clearing more raids were due.

The real extent of the bombing campaign to date was difficult to ascertain because many bombings have been reported. But scores of cities have suffered. Jack Belden, United Press staff correspondent on his way to the northern front, arrived at the little railroad junction of Shichihuang to find even its hospital destroyed by successive bombings — none of which even had been reported.

God in the Making of a Nation

Just before his death Moses reminded the Israelites of their debt to God for delivering them from many years of slavery in Egypt. Moses had been spared to become Israel's deliverer.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Deuteronomy 8:11-20.

God delivered the Israelites as Moses led them through the Red sea whose waters he opened to let Israel pass through safely, and closed upon the hosts of Pharaoh to drown them.

At Mount Sinai in the wilderness God gave the Israelites a great moral code which we call the Ten Commandments. Here he set forth man's duties to God and to his neighbors.

Throughout their years of wanderings in the wilderness God fed the Israelites gave the Israelites a great moral code daily with bread. For all this Moses urged their grateful service of God. (GOLDEN TEXT—Deut. 8:11.)

Deuteronomy 8:11—"Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his statutes, which I command thee this day."

WALNUT-TWP SCHOOL NEWS

Sports We have started the physical education program in the high school. There are eight girls' teams, two teams for each class. The class is held twice a week. We are planning to play soccer when it gets cooler. Also we're planning to organize a soft ball team if we can find competition. We are looking forward to the coming basketball season. Practice will start the last of October. The boys' sport so far this year has been recreation ball. It has been extensively in the physical education classes. Later on this year we are planning to play spud ball, volleyball and basketball. F. F. A. There are twenty-five boys enrolled in the freshman-sophomore agriculture class. At present they are working on project surveys.

The shop class is working on bench stops and tool boxes. There are twenty-two boys enrolled in the Junior-Senior agriculture class and at present they are working on drills which they finished Monday Sept. 20.

The monthly meeting of the F. F. A. will be held Sept. 21. The program of work will be made out for the coming year.

The junior-senior agriculture boys have purchased coveralls for use in engineering. The sophomore shop boys have purchased them for shop work.

F. H. A.

There are forty-eight students enrolled in home economics this year. There are twenty-one girls in the freshman class. These girls are canning. In the sophomore class there are fifteen. These girls, as a class project are planning luncheons which later they will prepare and serve in class. In the junior class there are twelve. These girls are making jams, jellies, conserves, and marmalade.

We have several improvements in our cafeteria this year. The most important ones are individual trays and meal tickets. By each person receiving a tray the danger of spilling and dropping articles is lessened, thus making the cafeteria a more desirable place in which to eat. The freshmen girls are taking care of serving in the cafeteria this year.

The Freshman Party

A coming out party, so to speak, is being given the freshmen by the upper classmen. The main events of the evening will be the initiation for the "freshies" planned by a committee; a weiner roast will follow. This great event is scheduled for 7:00 p. m. Friday, September 17, 1937.

American Government

The American government class is studying about the creation of government and how it was built up in the U. S. The senior class is quite large, and so is divided into two groups.

Commercial Department

A great interest is being shown in the new commercial department. There are fifty-one students enrolled in the junior and senior typing classes. Just now, the students are working on the mastery of the key board with the proper technique. Twenty-one students in the commercial law class are studying the formation of contracts. Included in the new course is stenography. This class consists of both juniors and seniors. There are seventeen short hand students learning the functional methods.

Music

The elementary grades have been meeting regularly for their music classes.

The junior orchestra is to include all students playing instruments from the elementary grades. This includes beginners.

An elementary choir composed of fourth, fifth, and sixth graders, is being organized to meet once a week.

The eighth, ninth, and tenth graders are conducting a magazine sale for which a portion of the proceeds are to be turned over to the orchestra treasury. It is hoped that enough money will be received to buy a String Bass.

The senior orchestra is made up of 20 members. Two new instruments have been added to this group. They belong to the school and were purchased through the sale of candy last year, namely Mellophone and a Tuba.

The members of the orchestra and their instruments are listed: Violins: Metta Mae Hickman, Jean Balthaser, Eileen Roger, Jeanne Noecker, Betty Glick, Mary Alice Smith, Betsy Huffer, Erna Frazier, Rosella Brown.

Clarinets: Robert Balthaser, John Noecker, Dick Noecker, Martha Jean Barr.

Trombones: Donald Balthaser, Ruby Kinser.

Trumpets: Jay Hay, Junior Mil-

Feed Corn In Shock, Farmers Prepare Land

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

About 90 percent of the field corn is now in shock and farmers are busy preparing their ground for wheat sowing, which according to the "bug men" should not be before Friday, Oct. 1, fly-free day, they call it. And a few days' planting before this date, does make a difference in the yield at harvest time. There are authorities for this statement.

And telling of farm and its crops, reminds us that James (Jimmy) Kuhlwein told us yesterday that he had a five-acre corn plot that he felt almost certain would yield one hundred bushels to the acre. Nearly every farmer whom we contact and mention corn, is a hybrid advocate—stands better, yields better, and medium sized fodder.

Dwelling Purchased

Mrs. Julia Weaver has purchased this week what is known as the Hudson dwelling property on East street for $3500. Ira Scothorn is administrator of the Hudson estate.

Zwayer Rents Farm

Walter Zwayer of Madison township has rented what is known as the Fullerton farm, 4 miles South of Circleville, and contains 571 acres. He will sow to wheat this Fall, 145 acres and for corn next year. Ovid Clark, Boyd Fosnaugh, Robert Barr.

Drums: Hugh Lamb, Eloise Hay, Tuba: Gerald Bowman.

Mellophone: Howard Drizigacker.

Piano: Grace M. Hoffman.

This year the ninth and tenth grade music classes are meeting together, and likewise the eleventh and twelfth.

The mixed chorus will meet one day a week. A music appreciation class and a special choir, composed of the most talented students, will each require one day a week.

Plans have been made to purchase a new piano, victrola and records, and a number of books for the music library.

First Grade News

There are 20 boys and 17 girls enrolled in the first grade this year. Miss Elsie Baker continues as teacher of this room.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BOARD TO ENTER QUARREL

WASHINGTON — Only a few insiders realize it, but during the last few weeks, the National Labor Relations Board has embarked quietly on a significant and far-reaching change of policy.

The original paramount purpose of the Labor Board was to settle disputes between Capital and Labor. But now the Board has undertaken the task of settling disputes between Labor and Labor—in other words, between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O.

In taking this step the Board recognized two facts:

1. Another Supreme Court test of its power is now almost certain, namely a test of its power to decide disputes between labor groups.

2. Factional labor disputes are the ominous labor problem facing the country today.

DUCKED ISSUE

Power to handle disputes between Labor and Labor was given to the NLRB by the Wagner Labor Disputes Act, but the Board was not anxious to use it. Very carefully, it side-stepped this power while the constitutionality of the Wagner Act still was before the Supreme Court. For it wanted a clean-cut test of its basic power to decide disputes between Capital and Labor without muddying the issue.

The Board was successful in this strategy. It got the sweeping O.K. of the Supreme Court.

Since then, however, labor disputes have drastically changed in character. Only one big strike has taken place between employer and labor — the abortive CIO strike against the independent steel companies. All of the other major strikes have resulted from rows between rival unions.

Even had the Labor Board so desired it could not have avoided taking a hand in this new type of dispute. The battling has gone to such lengths that the rights of employers as well as labor have been jeopardized.

FIRST DISPUTE

The Board moved cautiously into its first jurisdictional row. For it knew it was bound to have either CIO or AFL hanging on its ears.

Finally it picked the National Electric Products Co. of Ambridge, Pa., for the initiation. Here it overruled a closed-shop agreement between the A. F. of L. and the company and ordered an election. The workers, the Board argued, had a right to choose which union should represent them in collective bargaining.

The protests from the A. F. of L. could be heard at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue. The Labor Board was damned as being picked and paid by the CIO. However, a federal circuit court in Wilmington, Del., upheld the Board to the extent of refusing an injunction against its action.

something that isn't going to go out of style next week."

And there's another curious little quirk of modern life.

DEAD RECKONING

By BRUCE HAMILTON

COPYRIGHT BY BRUCE HAMILTON. RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy, who has been writing a suicide note to himself in his wife's handwriting, graduated into homicide from the school of armchair murderers. At middle age, having made a fortune in real estate, he was a well-to-do man in a small town near London. He felt happy and secure. Then Esther was run down by a truck. Weeks later she was brought home, a physical wreck and a cripple for life, with only a hint of her former beauty left. Tim took an interest in his wife because of her appearance. He suggests they hold their annual tennis party despite her condition. He looks forward to an appointment with Alma Shepherd, a widow and now client whom he has suggested to Esther they invite to the tennis party. At his office Tim arranges special favors for Mrs. Shepherd's benefit as she arrives. Kennedy maneuvers to invite Mrs. Shepherd to the party. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER 11

ALLOWING FOR a suggestion of strain, a tempo slightly accelerated, the tennis party was an undoubted success.

All were a shade more hearty than they would have been on a quiet ordinary occasion, exhibiting unusual skill in conveying sympathy to their host and hostess while evading direct mention of the cause of it. It is true that General Doughty, a slightly moth-eaten little man, who whatever his intrepidity on the battlefield habitually ran away from all unpleasantness in his retired state, was so affected by the warm sun and the temporary relief of his liver that he took Kennedy aside and barked bluntness at him: "Had no opportunity. Kennedy. Damn sorry. Bad Business—damn bad business." But no other reference was made, and a cheerful flag-flying atmosphere prevailed.

Alma Shepherd, arriving rather late with Phyllis in her net little two-seater, struck an exotic note. Mrs. Doughty, who had been in the game since her husband's death, she suspected her of being fast. General Doughty and Lawrence Cox as though they wished she were. But Alma, after a quick warming smile to Kennedy and the guests to whom he introduced her, behaved with a modesty and a discretion that were both reassuring and disappointing. She sat down beside Esther, who to her own surprise found herself inclined to enjoy herself, and the two seemed to find plenty to talk about.

At three o'clock Mower had not arrived, and a game of doubles was started. Kennedy, as host, Mrs. Doughty, laying claim to a rheumatic shoulder, and Harold Arkwright, who at the age of sixty-eight disliked playing in the heat of the day, stood out. Shortly after, Mrs. Mower, a youngish man with straw-colored hair and a loose mouth, made a vivid appearance in a polychromatic blazer and shorts. "So sorry," he apologized. "I had a patient I couldn't leave. Most complicated case; I only got home to my lunch less than an hour ago."

He gave out the air of a man hard pressed for time; Kennedy resented his attitude and was inclined to disbelieve his story. But as Arkwright was unimpaired and Mrs. Doughty was beginning to get confidential with Esther, he had to shoulder the burden of sociability and the two fenced civilly for a time.

Mower seemed ill at ease and annoyed at being out of the game, he kept slapping his thighs with his racket. Kennedy had his own preoccupation. At length they lapsed into silence, apart from an occasional comment on the game. "Oh, hard luck, sir!" Mower would exclaim, or "Oh, good kill!" or "Shooting!" or "Oh, well played—well played indeed!"

Kennedy was less vocal in his appreciation, but he was watching the play closely. Rather he was watching Alma Shepherd; he had finely pined head, the warm brown of her arms against her cool tennis frock, her strong thighs outlined by her skirt as she dived for a low return, the motions of her feet, responding with quick precision to the messages conveyed by her brain. . . . There was something about a beautiful woman playing good tennis that he had always found irresistible.

She reminded him a little of Esther a few years back, but she was even more graceful, and an infinitely better player. The game resolved itself into a duel between her and Lawrence Cox, who was tall, active, and a hard hitter, but without much finesse; gradually she got his measure, and at length she and the General ran out 8-6.

"Grand player, Mrs. Shepherd," said Mower. "Seen many worse at Wimbledon. I'd like to have a single with her some time." Kennedy was not going to have any of that just yet, and he set to work to get another doubles going. It had turned very hot, and there was some reluctance on the part of the players. Mrs. Shepherd looked as cool as when she began, but she seemed anxious not to call overmuch attention to her very manly feet, and declined to play any more until everyone else had had a game.

Eventually Kennedy and Harold Arkwright took on Mower and Mrs. Doughty, the latter stipulating that she should not be asked to serve. This suited Mower very well. He had a dozen little mannerisms that irritated Kennedy: an affected poise and precious arrangement of his feet as he served, a trick of leaning forward on his racket with chin upturned as he awaited service, unnecessary acrobatic gyrations as he swooped at balls wide of him, a little shuffling run up to the net preparatory to taking command of a rally, a trick of poaching from his partner at all opportunities, inevitably followed by an offhand "Sorry, partner." He was, in fact, a dapper little swankpot of the first water, but he could play tennis for all his swank. Arkwright and Kennedy, the latter very anxious to win, were kept on the defensive practically the whole time. They lost the set rather easily.

Then it was time for tea, which was served on the lawn. For a while Kennedy was busy handing things around, and he was unable to control his guests. The party split up into groups of two: Dr. Arkwright with Mrs. Doughty, Mower with Alma Shepherd, General Doughty with Lawrence Cox. Kennedy moved round smilingly from one to the other, catching little snatches of conversation—"Massage is all very well, and exercise better still, but in the long run it comes down to diet—anything else is only palliative." "I only saw him once, in '27, but I thought he was splendid." "Not in the same class as Thiden, though, Mrs. Shepherd, I assure you—not in the same class." "Dying like flies, dropping down in the streets, cannibalism, too. And the only decent farmers shot out of hand." "I tell you again you're wrong about the kulaks, General. It's not that they're good farmers, they're speculators."

He came to rest by Esther and Phyllis. He was surprised at the color in his wife's cheeks. His prophecy, lightly and insincerely made, seemed to have come true; she was all the better for the distraction. He stood behind her chair for a while, lightly stroking her hair—a picture of marital devotion.

"Would you like to go indoors now, dear?" he said presently. "We don't want to overheat you." "I don't feel tired, Tim." She smiled up at him. "I'm enjoying myself."

"That's splendid." He did not press her. They started tennis again, and in the cool of the afternoon the players warmed up to it. Four more sets of doubles, however, proved as much as the mostly rather elderly company could manage with comfort, and at the end of them Kennedy decided it was time to employ strategy. The only real difficulty was Mower. He went up to him and took his arm in a very friendly way.

"You don't look tired, Mr. Mower," he said. "I really think our two male stars should have a set to—why don't you and Cox take each other on?" He had quickly appreciated that Mower considered Cox to be "not in the same class" as himself, and the temptation to demonstrate his superiority proved irresistible. Cox who enjoyed a vigorous game without entertaining any illusions about his play, was willing enough, and the two began to knock up.

It was timed nicely, for Alma Shepherd (who had again been talking to Mower) was left momentarily high and dry. Kennedy smiled at her disarmingly.

"I did that on purpose," he said. "I'm not going to let Mr. Mower monopolize you. Let me show you round the garden—I know you love flowers."

Never Late to Revise Toothbrush Technique

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
YESTERDAY I made the point that only a few of the perhaps 45 million people in the United States and Canada who do brush their teeth, do it the right way.

The right way depends on a few simple principles. The main object of brushing the teeth is to prevent pyorrhea; only secondarily it is to clean the free surfaces of the teeth. To prevent pyorrhea you must keep clean the contact surfaces of the teeth when they touch the gums, stimulate them also. They do not do it so well as the toothbrush, but they are good adjuncts.

Any kind of a toothpick will do, but I think I ought to mention a new kind that is really the most logical and scientific accomplishment in toothpicks. These are made of soft wood so that they get waterlogged from the mouth secretion and swell to touch the contact surfaces of the teeth when inserted between them. One edge is a straight edge with a groove, and the other is a sabre edge. You insert with the groove edge next to the gum, and the sabre edge moves down and cleans everything before it.

Dental floss is another adjunct, not as useful as a toothpick, and in using it care should be taken not to injure the gum. Stimulation, not trauma, is the idea. This method should be taught children as soon as they are old enough to brush their own teeth, but it is never too late to save what teeth you have left by revising your toothbrush technique.

The kind of toothbrush is the next most important thing. The dentifrice is of little importance—soapy or sandy, it is all the same.

It's like the great Montague, who has been in the paper so much lately, according to my dentist's simile.

You're Telling Me!

THE HUMAN RACE, somebody says, will never change, no matter what mechanical progress is achieved. If that's the case, then, probably, humans in the year 100937 A. D. will read stuff like this in their newspapers:

MARS CITY, Mars. — Today the League of Planets launched its patrol of the solar system, though no new outrage committed by pirate space ships was reported.

BASEBALL—Uranus, 6; Mercury, 3; Neptune, 2; Saturn, 0; Pluto, 12; Venus, 7—Earth, 15; Mars, 4. Home runs, Gay-Rig-U's, Earth, 2.

ETHER BEACH, Pluto — The last Sunday of the summer season brought the greatest holiday crowd of the year. Due to the heavy space ship traffic, there were 2,675,923 bad smashups.

FOOTBALL — Teams of the Asteroid conference waited the starting whistle today to launch their grid season. Ceres, champion in 100936, is expected to repeat, but Pallas, Juno, Vesta and Brucia are also considered in the running.

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up pondering over the fact that conditions and affairs have changed but little in the history of our nation, further prompted in the idea by having read a History of the State of Ohio, published by our own Caleb Atwater, pioneer educator and outstanding historian, back in 1838. Found the book interesting, particularly the dedication "To the Young Men of Ohio." And here it is:

"This volume is respectfully dedicated to you, and as the destiny of this great state soon will be, so this book is delivered to you for safe keeping. In writing this volume my thoughts have always rested on you, in full confidence that you will carry out all the great measures of your fathers; that you will rectify our errors, and keep pace in the age in which you will live. Your fathers have done more than they even ask you to do. They have gone ahead of the age in which they live. . . ."

"The liberties of this country have been preserved by those achieved them; and their fathers have also preserved them very recently, but great efforts have been made, are making, and will be made to pull from beneath it, all the main pillars, on which our temple of liberty rests. So far as I could in this volume, place before you the principles of your fathers, as the cynosure of liberty, I have fearlessly done so.

"I have everywhere spoken exultingly of the future, but my young friends, candor compels me to confess, that all such passages, in my writings, of late years, have been written with a heavy heart. However, to you, under the direction of a kind Providence, kind indeed to you, I commit my volume, and all the aspirations which I feel, for your prosperity, in common with your parents and friends.

"If this Republic must be destroyed, it will be effected by destroying the liberty of speech and the press, on some particular subject, at first; but extending its encroachments, all freedom of speech and the press will be butted out. In that case the party then in power will seize the occasion to intrude themselves in high places, and unless the people shed rivers of blood, those in office will remain an incubus on the body politic. When that day arrives, rather than yield up the liberties of this country, to the men who are aiming at its destruction I would prefer to see our own Ohio, breasting the storm of war, alone, if need be, and our citizens either maintaining their ground valiantly, and victoriously, or dying gloriously. If Liberty ever quits this Union, may the last footsteps, tinged with blood, be imprinted deeply on every plain and every hill of Ohio. My young friends! we live in an eventful period, and you can hardly expect to sustain the liberties of this country, without the utmost vigilance. Watch the men in power at Washington city. What I say to you, I say to all — watch them because they need it — watch yourselves — watch all parties, and resist every encroachment on your rights. Beware of too closely following any party, and be sure not to adhere too much to any popular favorite. Bitter experience teaches us to do so no more."

So, even a century ago there was some "viewing with alarm." All history shows us that this land of ours can withstand a deal of wrecking. Anyway, I found Caleb's history very interesting. And thanks to Harry Well for the opportunity to read it.

Presbyterian Social Club Starts Its Fall Season

Day in Rural School Proves Interesting to Members

Forty-one members and visitors attended the initial meeting for the fall season, Friday evening of the Women's Social club of the Presbyterian church.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 o'clock by Mrs. Hulse Hays, the new president, who in a pleasant manner greeted the members and visitors and thanked the club members for their confidence in choosing her president. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Harry Stevenson. The next meeting of the society will be Friday, Oct. 15. Mrs. E. S. Roper was named chairman of the program committee, and Mrs. George Hammell, chairman of the hostess committee. Some "Tall Tales," told by Mrs. H. O. Pile and Mrs. Charles Dresbach were much enjoyed.

The program, which was planned by Mrs. E. O. Crites, Mrs. Loring Evans and Mrs. Eva Dresbach, consisted of a day in a country school. Mrs. Crites filled the role of teacher, and the pupils were Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Mrs. Marvin Dresbach, Mrs. Grace Wentworth, Mrs. Walter Bockard, Mrs. Eva Dresbach, Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, Mrs. Franklin Crites, and Miss Katherine Boehard. All musical selections were accompanied at the piano by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke.

Classes recited in different studies and musical numbers were interspersed during the program. A surprise feature of the evening, was the fact that the audience was included in the school, and at the most unexpected moments the members were asked to recite their lessons, creating much merriment. At the conclusion of the program, the guests were asked to the tea table and were served sandwiches and tea. The table was attractive, a large bowl of ageratum, cosmos and var-colored petunias flanked by white tapers in tall crystal holders forming the centerpiece.

Miss Florence Dunton, Mrs. H. O. Pile, Mrs. J. H. Adams, Mrs. E. S. Stephens, Mrs. E. E. Bortner, Mrs. S. M. Cryder, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. G. G. Campbell, Miss Ethel Kiger and Miss Bernadine Lutz were members of the hostess committee.

The guests present included Mrs. Harold Elkins, of Oswego, N. Y.; Mrs. Anna Gatten, of Kingston; Mrs. Clarence Hott, Mrs. Harvey Heffner, Miss Mary Heffner, Mrs. H. B. Given and Mrs. Kate Stein, of Circleville.

Mrs. Hedges Hostess
Pottery jars of fall flowers added a colorful note to the rooms of her home, Friday, when Mrs. B. T. Hedges was hostess to several out-of-town friends at a bridge-luncheon.

The guests gathered around one large table in the dining room at one o'clock. A large crystal flower holder in the center of the table held in the top, zinnias in various shades of yellow with sprays of snowberry drooping to the small vases of blue ageratum closely set around the base. The shades of the flowers were continued in the service used in the luncheon.

Contract bridge was the diversion of the afternoon. Favors were received by each guest, and high score player in each round, exchanged her favor for any other at the table. At the close of the

The well planned program was opened with a song by the grangers. Mrs. M. J. Valentine gave a reading, "Dieting." Miss Nellie Kuhn and Miss Edith Spangler were members of the cast in a short playlet, "Romance." A paper, "The Grange, a Great Fraternity," was read by Mrs. Clay Hittler. All grangers entered in the contest, "Do You Know Your Grange?"

Mrs. Turney Glick was inspecting officer for the juvenile grange, which is doing splendid work.

The next meeting of the grange will be a Booster Night meeting, Thursday Sept. 30 at Washington school. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock, and S. B. Stowe, of Marion a member of the executive committee of the Ohio State Grange will be guest speaker.

Bingo Party
The auxiliary to the Henry Page Folsom Post Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold a bingo party Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Roy Norris, N. Court street, at 8 o'clock.

W. C. T. U. Convention
The 47th annual convention of the Pickaway county Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in the United Brethren church, Circleville, Friday, Sept. 24. Mrs. Lucy B. Brice, county president, was in the chair.

The meeting opened by singing "America." The devotional service was in charge of Mrs. Abbie Gussman, county evangelistic director. The roll call followed with all county officers, eleven county directors and ten out of eleven local presidents responding.

The reports of Mrs. Daisy Stinson, county corresponding secretary, and of Mrs. Abbie Gussman, county treasurer were received. Mrs. Charles E. Scott, state scientific instruction lecturer and field worker, spoke in the schools of the county during the year giving her lecture with slides on "Alcohol and Health." She contacted 2,000 young people who found her lecture both interesting and instructive. The following slate of officers was chosen during the business meeting: Mrs. Lucy B. Brice, of Circleville, president; Miss Mary L. Harpster, of Kingston, vice president; Mrs. Daisy Stinson, Atlanta, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Adda M. Prushing, Ashville, recording secretary; and Mrs. Delphine Cromley, Ashville, route 1, treasurer.

Mrs. Viola D. Romans, president of Ohio W. C. T. U. was presented to the convention and she brought greetings from the State. The following county directors were elected for the year:

Mrs. Adda M. Prushing, Ashville, Christian citizenship; Miss Mary L. Harpster, Kingston, child welfare; Mrs. Abbie Gussman, Circleville, evangelistic; Mrs. Lulu Kirkpatrick, New Holland, medical temperance; Mrs. Maude Maxey, Circleville, religious education; Mrs. Daisy Stinson, Atlanta, social morality; Miss Blanche Ryan, Circleville, exhibits and fairs; Mrs. Campa Eagleson, Circleville, legislation and motion pictures; Mrs. Ada Costlow, New Holland, medal contests; Miss Clara E. Welsh, Williamsport, health; Mrs. Bessie Allen, Circleville, non-alcoholic fruit products; Mrs. Pearl Adkins, Circleville, parliamentary usage; Mrs. Edna Reay, Mt. Sterling, soldiers and sailors; Mrs. Ida Griffith, New Holland, temperance and missions; Mrs. Delphine Cromley, Ashville, publicity and radio; Mrs. Della Hay, Ashville, flower mission and relief; Mrs. Laura Pontius, Ashville, union signal promoter; Mrs. Maude Maxey, Circleville, pianist and secretary of Youths' Temperance Council.

Mrs. Romans delivered the main address of the afternoon session. The memorial service for deceased members, followed under the direction of Mrs. Mabel E. Emmmons, president of Five Points union.

The Rev. T. C. Harper, pastor of the U. B. church gave a short talk, concluding the program.

W. C. T. U.
The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. O. Eagleson, N. Pickaway street. Mrs. Anna Rankin will be leader for the meeting.

Mrs. Newhouse Hostess
Mrs. Edna Newhouse, of Williamsport, was hostess to the members of the Friday Night bridge club and a table of guests at the Wardell party home. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock, the guests being seated at one large table centered with fall flowers and candles. The prize winners in the bridge games included Mrs. Sam Metzger, of the guests, Mrs. Russell Wardell and Miss Carolyn Bochart of the club members.

Mrs. Newhouse's guests included Mrs. William Dunlap, Miss Margaret Dunlap and Mrs. Metzger, of Williamsport; and Mrs. Helen Heiskell Miller, of Bucyrus. The club members present were Mrs. Lee Luellen, Mrs. White Campbell, Mrs. George LeMay, Mrs. Russell McDill, Mrs. Fred Tipton, Mrs. William Heiskell, Mrs. Russell Wardell, Miss Carolyn Bochart and Mrs. Newhouse.

Mrs. Russell Wardell will entertain the club in two weeks.

Birthday Celebration
Mr. and Mrs. Renick Dunlap and daughter, Maxine, of Kingston, will join other members of the family in a celebration of the 100th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Dunlap's father, Mr. Edward W. Cummins, of 2588 East avenue, Columbus. The family party will be held at the Cummins home, Sunday.

Mr. Cummins was born and reared in Pickaway county, near Ashville, and is a Civil War veteran. He is the only survivor of three brothers, the other two having reached the ages of 88 and 99.

Birthday Party
Mrs. Stanley Peters, W. Water street, entertained at an evening party Friday honoring her daughter Kathleen Greene, on her 19th birthday anniversary.

Dancing and games were enjoyed during the evening with prizes won by Ruth Mowery and Maynard Matz. A delightful two-course lunch was served at the conclusion of the evening. The guests were seated at one long table in the dining room. The table was attractively decorated in pink and green, streamers leading from the center light above the table to each place. Nut cup favors and place cards continued the color theme. The centerpiece was a bowl of fall flowers interspersed with slender burning tapers. Many attractive gifts were received by Miss Greene.

Included in the guests were Betty Fitzpatrick, of Columbus; Ruth Mowery, Hazel Matz, Harriet McGath, Dorothy Walters, Charlotte Cook, Helen Evans, Dorothy Carter, Mr. and Mrs. William Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Greene, Elliott Wells, John Dean, Maynard Matz, Bernard Matz, Emmitt Ebenhack, Vernon George, Carl Morrison, Jimmie Mowery, Sterling Poling, Martin Walters, Eugene Mowery, and Charles Dean.

Mrs. Betts Honored
Mrs. Walter Stout, Mrs. Edna Moon and Mrs. Elliott Mason were joint hostesses at a surprise party Friday evening honoring Mrs. Charles Betts, of Pickaway township, on her birthday anniversary.

The guests gathered at the home of Mrs. Stout in N. Pickaway street, and after a delightful dinner, enjoyed an evening of auction bridge. The score prize winners were Mrs. Fred Fissell and Mrs. Lloyd Leasure, who also received the traveling prize.

Those who enjoyed the pleasant affair were Mrs. Jack Backenbaster, Mrs. Tom Courtney, Mrs. Eddie Rinehart and Mrs. Cloyce Parks, of Columbus; Mrs. Ralph Leach, Mrs. Lloyd Leasure, Mrs. Mack Moore, Mrs. Denny Shelby, Mrs. John Ward, Mrs. Jack Miller, Mrs. Rockford Brown, and Mrs. Fred Fissell.

Nazarene Class Meets
Election of officers was held Friday evening during the meeting of the Nazarene Class at the home of Hazel McCoy, of S. Pickaway street. Those chosen were Virginia Wellenreiter, president; Harold Rossiter, vice president; Nettie Mae Crable, treasurer and Mary Lutz, secretary. Sunshine friends for the year were chosen.

A pledge was made by the class members for the building fund. A social evening, including various games was brought to a close with the lunch served by Clarabelle Hoffman.

EDITORIAL
PHILOSOPHY OF HUMOR
To those who are psychological-ly inclined it is interesting to observe the human need of amusement and the various forms assumed by this need under certain environmental conditions.

For example, who of us can say what it is in the classroom that causes slight sounds or motions, which under any other circumstances would be insignificant, to become excruciatingly funny?

What is it that causes otherwise unnoticed mannerisms or peculiarities to be a source of uncontrolled mirth?

What mental process takes place when the average student is confronted with the word "classroom?"

This being a period of "anti's" and "isms" it seems that it would not be greatly amiss—in fact it would be entirely in keeping with our present progressive attitude—to inaugurate a policy of "anti-classroom comedianism" or a C. T. C. U. (Cut-the-Comedy Temperance Union).

Culture and refinement are supposed to be the results of education. Although not much affected by education, anthropologists can oftentimes furnish quite satisfactory amusement.

PLANS DISCLOSED FOR EARNING NEW MOVIE PROJECTOR

A plan for securing a sound motion picture machine for Circleville high school was disclosed Wednesday by Principal Robert Terhune.

The Curtis Publishing Co. of Philadelphia has offered a proposition by which the high school pupils, in return for selling magazine subscriptions on a credit basis, can obtain a four hundred seventy-five dollar Ajax sound motion picture projector.

For each dollar's worth of subscriptions or renewals turned in by a pupil, one credit is given to the school. The cost of the movie projector is 450 credits.

A pupil's credits will also count toward smaller prizes for that individual, although counting at the same time in the school's total.

The Curtis plan, as presented by the principal, who has guided three other schools through such campaigns, proved agreeable to the majority of the student body.

However, no decision will be made until next week when a representative from the company will give a full explanation.

INSTRUCTOR TELLS ART CLASS PLANS

Brunelle Parrett Downing, art instructor in the Circleville schools, announced Thursday her plans for the art classes during the coming school year.

It was decided to continue the Sketch club. This club organized last year is mainly for the pleasure of those interested in figure and face drawing. Outdoor sketching and memory action drawing will also be emphasized this year. The Sketch club offers an opportunity for art study to those students who are unable to include it in their schedules.

Because so many eighth graders wanted to join the high school Sketch club, a junior Sketch club will probably be formed within a few weeks.

A special course in lettering, requested by a number of boys, will be offered in addition to the regular art work.

All art classes and Sketch club meetings will be held in the new room 214.

C.H.S. ENTERS NEW YEAR IN LEAGUE

For the third year Circleville high school's varsity debate team will compete with other varsity teams in the Ohio high school league, Robert E. Jewett, debate coach, announced early last week.

The league's subject of discussion this year is "Resolved, that the several states should adopt a unicameral system of legislation." Each school will again prepare both affirmative and negative teams.

Circleville debaters will receive their schedules in December.

Mr. Jewett plans to begin coaching candidates in two weeks. A definite schedule will be announced for try-outs within the next few days.

This year the entire debate club will study the varsity question.

RADCLIFF SPEAKS ON CONSTITUTION

William Radcliff, local attorney, gave an address, "The Constitution of the United States," before the assembled student body of Circleville high school Wednesday morning.

This assembly was planned as a part of the nationwide celebration of the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution.

Band Plays History Day; Two Orchestras Combine

Sunday, October 3, C. F. Zaenglein will take the high school band to Logan Elm to join in the celebration sponsored by the Ohio History Day society.

In the near future Mr. Zaenglein plans to combine the junior and senior orchestras into a single unit. An entirely new junior group will then be formed.

TICKETS A SELL-OUT
Principal Robert Terhune announced Friday that the one hundred fifty High School Day tickets ordered for Circleville high school pupils were all sold.

CAMPAGNING FOR CLASS ELECTIONS ENDS ON SEPT. 30

"Campaigning" for class offices will end next Thursday afternoon at twelve forty-five when all four classes will hold meetings to elect student leaders.

This is the first time that class organizations has taken place during the opening weeks of school. For this reason pupils in each class are asked to begin considering carefully their choices for president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of their respective groups.

The method to be followed in electing individuals to class positions includes nomination from the floor and secret balloting.

Retiring presidents are preparing ballots now so that Thursday's meetings may be conducted quickly and smoothly.

FISCHER SPEAKS AT HI-Y SESSION

Frank Fischer, superintendent, addressed members of the Hi-Y club at their first meeting on Monday. Care in selection of a program and goal in nomination of new members was stressed in his talk.

J. D. Barricklow, Hi-Y adviser, read the minutes of the conference held last May by the superintendent, the principal and the club advisers and representatives of the Hi-Y and Stooge clubs. This conference was called to discuss membership and program of each organization.

1937-38 officers of the Hi-Y club are Joe Smalley, president, Lewis Cooper, vice-president, Bob Trump, secretary, and Art Rooney, treasurer. The club has 21 members.

Initiation of this year's candidates will take place during the fourth week of school.

THIRTEEN DESIRE E.M.S. MEMBERSHIP

Thirteen pupils have fulfilled the requirements for entrance into the Epsilon Mu Sigma, high school honorary English society, and expressed a desire last Wednesday to join the organization.

To be eligible to join the E. M. S. a student must have during the preceding year at least three A's and no grade lower than B in English.

These prospective new members attended Wednesday's meeting: Joanne Conyers, Marshall Cupp, Bunny Doolittle, Mary Fickard, Louise Helwegen, David Hilyard, Violet Justice, Eleanor McDill, Wayne Mogan, Mary Newmyer, Mary Jane Schier, Bernice Strawser and Jennings Turner.

Initiation will be held Monday evening, October 4.

Loren Pace is advisor of the club this year.

BENNETT, FICKARDT, FUNK LEAD PEP MEET FRIDAY

Pat Bennett, Mary Fickardt and Jack Funk, chosen last week as cheerleaders for 1937-38, led a short pep assembly Friday afternoon.

Samuel Johnson, English instructor, speaking briefly, encouraged the team and asked the support of all pupils at the game with Worthington last night.

NEW HEALTH BOOKS USED

New textbooks are being used this year in boys' and girls' hygiene classes.

"Health and Achievement," by Cockeffer and Cockeffer, is the book used by the freshmen and sophomores. The text for the juniors and seniors is "Health for Body and Mind" by Walter F. Cobb.

EXECUTIVES PLAN BUSINESS MEETING DURING OCTOBER

Circleville Teachers' Association held its first social gathering of the school year, the annual picnic, Thursday evening at Rising Park, Lancaster.

After a picnic supper new teachers in the Circleville school system were introduced.

Virgil Cress headed the committee in charge of arrangements for the event. On his committee were Virginia Marion, Merle Reid, Mary Walters and Helen Yates.

The teachers' association has a membership which include all teachers in the Circleville schools. Officers this year are Robert E. Jewett, president, Mrs. Channing Virebome, vice-president, and Gene Rader, secretary. The treasurer's position is vacant due to the resignation of Helen Cellar.

The executive committee—the officers of the club and last year's president, Fred Watts—will announce the date for the first professional meeting to be held this month.

At this meeting one of the two persons named by the nominating committee for the treasury vacancy will be voted into office. Kenneth Lea, Sophia Parks and Norma Ross will make the nominations.

RED, BLACK GRIDDERS PLAY FIGHTING BALL TO DEFEAT WORTHINGTON

Tiger 11 Tallies In Two Periods

Noggle and Jackson Cross Goal After Drives In First and Fourth Quarters Under Lights

Jack Landrum's Tigers snapped early in the first period, halted a Worthington threat with a pass interception on the goal line, and wound up an interesting evening Friday by scoring on a beautiful pass and reception in the final session, to even their season's record with a 13-0 victory. The extra point was added after the first score on a pass play.

The game they played against Worthington went a long way toward making their large host of followers forget the Groveport thumping of a week ago. Many say there were 1,200 at the opening game, so there must have been more than 900 at the well-lighted Red and Black field Friday evening.

Next week the Tigers go after Granville in an afternoon game on the Licking county field. Granville trounced Groveport Friday afternoon 20-0, but Sims, Groveport's great quarterback, was not in the game for a single minute, and that's something.

Garner Covers Fumble
First, the story of the scoring: Captain Earl Garner won the toss and decided to receive the kickoff. P. Walters returned from the 10 to the 33. The Tigers were forced to punt, but Worthington's backs were chilled by a hard-charging Tiger line, fumbling on the second play, Garner covering on the Worthington 32. A pass was incomplete, then Woodward slid through for seven. A pass Woodward to P. Walters took the ball to the 16. Woodward picked up eight on a lateral, moving the ball to the seven yard mark. Noggle claimed three, then smacked to the one-inch line. He scored on the next play. Woodward passed to Jackson for the point. The touchdown required six minutes.

The Worthington outfit started to scrap after the Tiger touchdown and made three consecutive first downs moving the ball to the Circleville 23 before Fickard broke through to smear a play for a five-yard loss. This tackle took the snap out of the offensive and the Tigers gained the ball on downs on the 26.

Late in the first half Bob Liston covered a Worthington fumble on the invader's 44-yard line to give the Tigers a chance. Two first downs were scored and the ball was moved to the Worthington 27 before a short pass was intercepted by the Franklin county crew's secondary.

Liston Alert
Liston's alertness ended a Worthington threat in the third period when he covered another loose ball after the Tiger foe had driven down the field to the 25.

Worthington took the ball on an exchange of punts and was moving down the field at the close of the third period. Two consecutive offside penalties against Circleville gave Worthington the leather on its own 31. An overline pass and two thrusts at the line by Fields, big and fast colored back, gave Worthington a first down on the 43 as the third period closed.

Worthington pierced the Tiger forwards for another first down on the Circleville 48. It was here that Tiger followers received a thrill. Scott fired a long pass over the heads of the Tiger defense to Schurtz, who was dropped on the 11-yard stripe. Fields was smeared.

ed for a yard loss, then gained two, before Schurtz picked up three. Schurtz was stopped on the fourth attempt just short of the first down so the Red and Black took the pigskin on the four-yard mark.

Woodward Intercepts

Martin Walters booted out to the 38, but Schurtz returned to the 24. Fields gained two, then Cook passed again toward Schurtz, but Johnny Noggle was in the way. He almost intercepted the ball, but it got away from him. While it was still in the air Woodward grabbed it and sped through nearly all of the Worthington team back to the 35-yard mark. The run was a thriller, and gave the Tigers a spark that they needed to carry on.

An off-tackle play lost a few yards, but Woodward took a lateral and ran almost 20 yards for a first down on the Worthington 44. Worthington was offside to give the Red and Black five more, then a Woodward pass was grounded. Another aerial from Woodward to Bob Liston moved the ball up to the 20. Liston was almost loose on this pass but his feet were tripped from under him as he leaped over a would-be tackler. The Tigers picked up five more on a Worthington offside.

The Tiger backs were in action a moment later, though, neutralizing the gain. A pass was grounded and then a lateral that failed was ruled as an incomplete forward. Another pass Woodward to P. Walters was ruled good because of interference on the 10 yard line. Noggle smeared for five, and Woodward gained one. Another pass was grounded and it was fourth and four. M. Walters was hurt trying to block for Woodward and was replaced by Stebelton. Woodward then whipped a pretty pass to Jackson who took the ball out of a Worthington man's hands to score. Another pass to Jackson failed to connect and the score stood 13 to 0.

The game ended in this manner although Worthington threatened against Circleville's reserves. Schurtz breaking through the line a couple of times. The threat was ended though when Marv Jenkins leaped high to intercept an aerial. Worthington scored 13 first downs to seven for the Tigers, but for one reason or another the moguls who invented football decided that the score should count and not the first downs.

The Tigers tried 11 passes, four of them being complete for 53 yards. Two were intercepted.

The work of the Tiger line was a bright spot of the ball game. Arledge and Garner seemed at home at the guards, and H. Martin did a yeoman's job at center. These three boys smeared play after play. The work of the Tiger tackles and ends was much-improved over last week. Much work must be done next week on offensive blocking, especially in the backfield, but the job turned in Friday evening was 100 percent better than a week ago. Paul Walters and Stebelton did good jobs of running the team with Noggle and Woodward doing most of the ball-lugging. Woodward, pride of the freshman class, proved a threat from start to finish with his running and passing. Some brushing up on his pass defense work will make him a certain regular.

The punting of Martin Walters was above reproach.

Coach Landrum was pleased with the fight of his boys, and the charging of the line from end to end. It was difficult for Worthington to get its plays started with a couple of smashing forwards crashing in on them.

For Worthington, Schurtz and Fields were outstanding, both being constant threats.

CIRCLEVILLE ANGLERS PUT 300 FINGERLINGS IN DARBY
A group of Circleville anglers received a surprise Friday night. They were informed that some small mouth bass for distribution in county streams would arrive from a federal hatchery in Michigan.

Two cans containing about 300 fingerlings were received. The fish were placed in Darby creek by Harry Bartholomew, Earl Smith and Frank Eddy.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

DUCKING A REDOUBLE

SOMETIMES IT is better to go down one more trick, doubled, than to leave a redoubled contract in if you feel sure you will be set two or more tricks. That is a good thing to bear in mind, either vulnerable or not vulnerable, if you have previously fooled your partner into thinking you have a hand much better than you actually possess. In such cases, it may be wise to bid still one higher after he has redoubled. If he should then redouble after you are doubled at the higher level, your only recourse is to get a new partner or else quit the consumed game.

North felt that South's hand was of good substantial strength. When West went to 4-Hearts, North doubled for penalties, but South could not stand this and went out into 5-Spades. West doubled this on general principles, whereupon North cheerfully redoubled. Visualizing a set of at least two tricks redoubled, which would cost his side 600 points, South calculated that going down one more trick not doubled would be only 500 points. So he took out into 6-Spades, which West doubled. This time North got the hint and passed.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

After two passes made it his turn, South decided to open this deal against his vulnerable opponents with a semi-psychic call of 1-Spade. West overcalled with 2-Hearts and then North forced with 3-Spades. After East bid 4-Hearts and South 4-Spades, What should West lead?

PROPER SPECIFICATIONS AID F. H. A. STAFF HANDLE APPLICATIONS

Wrong Information Cited or Delay in Activity

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 25.—To facilitate the processing of new construction cases submitted for insurance, the Underwriting Division of the Federal Housing Administration has made public a list of the most frequent omissions and errors in plans and specifications prepared by builders and contractors.

Lack of essential information on many important points has hampered the efficient handling of business in many of the offices, Frederick M. Babcock, Director of the Division, explained. While incomplete cases are received in all states, the greatest difficulty has been experienced in states in which the Administration has not yet established minimum construction requirements.

Further study of Technical Bulletin No. 3, "Contract Documents", he said, would assure the preparation and submission of the type of plans and specifications desired by the Federal Housing Administration. Copies of the booklet are available at all local insuring offices.

"Approximately 50 percent of the business handled by the Federated minimum construction requirements report decided improvement in the form and content of plans and specifications received, many other offices are finding them utterly inadequate in many respects. Many builders prepare specifications which are so brief and so vague as to give little clue to the method of construction to be used.

Frequent Errors

"The most frequent errors and omissions noted by the underwriting staffs are the following:

"(1) The omission of drawings of wall sections;

"(2) Incomplete description of the method of bracing and framing;

"(3) Inadequate description of the sizes, types, and grades of lumber;

"(4) Inadequate designation of the quality of workmanship;

"(5) Incomplete wiring layouts which fail to give specific location of all outlets;

"(6) Failure to give grade and type of plumbing fixtures and capacity of heating plant;

"(7) Incomplete specifications for flashing, counterflashing, and caulking;

"(8) Failure to give the grade of roofing to be employed;

"(9) Inadequate specifications for the type and number of coats of paint;

"(10) Incomplete specifications for grading, sodding, and walks, as well as improper indication of finish grade.

"It should be noted that the submitting of badly drawn, incomplete, and ill-conceived plans may result not only in delay in processing cases but may necessitate the rejection of the loan or a reduction in the size of the mortgage accepted for insurance. In order that houses may meet at least minimum standards of livability and architectural attractiveness, it is often necessary to require the re-drawing of the plans. Specifications are also returned, in many cases, with the request that the method of construction be clarified."

STABILIZING FACTORS

NAMED BY F.H.A. HEAD

Federal Housing Administrator

Stewart McDonald believes that the necessary immediate growth and the future stability of the residential building market depends on four things. They are the personal incomes of the purchasers, the availability of the mortgage financing required, confidence of the purchasers in their homes as satisfactory dwellings and in the soundness of the values represented by the new houses and the availability at reasonable prices of new homes meeting modern standards of comfort, equipment, and durability.

The Housing Administration, in its efforts to prevent such a disastrous recurrence, urges builders to maintain a carefully adjusted balance so that the supply of homes built shall fit income requirements. It is admitted the supply of suitable homes is far behind, but that, in certain specific price ranges and specific localities, an overbuilding condition might still prevail if such a check were not in effect.

One Floor Plan

THIS house, arranged for a small family, has all of the rooms on one floor. There is no dining room, but a corner of the kitchen may be used as a dining alcove, if desired. The bedrooms have cross ventilation and large closets. The house was appraised at $4,750, and the Federal Housing Administration issued a commitment to insure a mortgage for $3,300, with monthly payments of $32.85. The property is located in Minnesota.

KEEP ACTIVITIES IN PRICE RANGE, BUILDERS URGED

Overproduction of homes in the higher price ranges which found their way into the hands of families unable to afford them was one contributing factor in the severity of the recent depression. To guard against a repetition of this condition, the Federal Housing Administration, through its risk rating and appraisal system, has a very definite check on the practice in vogue years ago by which potential home buyers were loaded down with homes which their incomes would not liquidate.

The Housing Administration, in its efforts to prevent such a disastrous recurrence, urges builders to maintain a carefully adjusted balance so that the supply of homes built shall fit income requirements. It is admitted the supply of suitable homes is far behind, but that, in certain specific price ranges and specific localities, an overbuilding condition might still prevail if such a check were not in effect.

BOOKSHELF MANTEL

An unusual bookcase arrangement in a modern room, had the shelves at one side of a fireplace, with the top shelf extending across the fireplace to form a mantel.

Questions and Answers

Q. How large should a breakfast alcove be? I would like to build one in the corner of my kitchen but do not know whether there is sufficient room.

A. If the table and chairs are to be portable, a desired minimum size is seven feet six inches square. If they are to be built in, an area of four feet by six feet is the minimum space for four persons.

Q. Is it dangerous when the hot water turns to steam?

A. It is dangerous unless there is a safety release valve on the tank. If there is one, it should be examined by a competent plumber to be sure it is in working condition.

Q. How far should a concrete footing under a chimney go down for a one-story house?

A. All footings should be designed of a size to adequately support the load to be carried. They should extend below the frost line prevailing in the neighborhood.

Q. Is there any way I can use the fireplace in one room to heat another?

A. Yes. There are several space heaters on the market that use either warm-air ducts or circulating hot water to carry the fireplace heat to other rooms.

Q. What would cause excessive springiness in our living-room floor?

A. They should be examined by a competent carpenter. The floor joists may be too small or too widely spaced or not sufficiently braced with bridging. Remember, however, that all wood floors have a certain amount of spring.

Q. Can I get a Federal Housing Administration insured mortgage loan for a term of 20 years on a residence which is 15 years old but in pretty good condition?

A. Yes; if the remaining useful life warrants and all other requirements with respect to the property, the neighborhood, and financial status of the borrower are met. Age of the house is not a determining factor except insofar as it may adversely affect these items.

Q. Does the Federal Housing Administration send an appraiser out to appraise the property before

FEDERAL OFFICER TO TALK SEPT. 28 ON HOUSING ACT

Howard Leland Smith, chief of the architectural section of the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C., will be the principal speaker at the Conference for Planning Small Houses to be held in Columbus Tuesday, Sept. 28, at 7:30 p. m., in the main ballroom of the Deshler-Wallick Hotel.

Mr. Smith has had many years of practical experience in the architectural field, and possesses a comprehensive knowledge of housing problems. His message will be of general public interest, but especially valuable to builders, architects and real estate men who are desirous of producing attractive and well-built small houses at low cost.

A graduate of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Mr. Smith also studied architecture abroad, and prior to joining the staff of the Federal Housing Administration, practiced for 16 years in New York City, during which time he was consultant architect in many large projects.

The American Institute of Architects, Central Ohio Lumber Institute, Columbus Real Estate Board, and the Builders' Exchange are cooperating with the Federal Housing Administration in making this meeting possible.

An open forum will be scheduled after the address.

A cordial invitation to attend is being extended to the people of the cities and towns surrounding Columbus, and it is expected that a number of those interested will be present from Circleville and vicinity.

an application is filed with a lending institution?

A. No.

Q. Does the Federal Housing Administration have plans and specifications of houses costing from $2,500 to $3,000 for distribution to the public?

A. The Federal Housing Administration does not have plans and specifications for houses in any price range for distribution to the public.

Q. Where can I obtain further information regarding the Federal Housing Administration insured mortgage plan?

A. If you live in South Dakota, address your inquiries to the Federal Housing Administration, 405 Western Surety Building, Sioux Falls, S. Dak.

TWO TYPES OF ANALYSES MADE FOR INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Federal Housing Administration makes two types of analyses in determining the eligibility and risk-rating characteristics of a mortgage. One is to determine whether or not the mortgage complies with requirements of the National Housing Act, and the second determines the quality of the mortgage in terms of risk.

If a mortgage does not have a risk rating of 50 percent or more, it is not eligible for insurance. To be economically sound, a mortgage must be based on good security and involve a borrower with characteristics and income which indicate a strong probability that the debt will be paid off in accordance with conditions of the transaction.

A transaction of this type is mutually advantageous to the borrower, the mortgagee, and the Federal Housing Administration.

SUBDIVISIONS APPROVED

The object of the Federal Housing Administration's subdivision analysis and approval is to encourage the creation of stable and attractive residential neighborhoods. The Federal Housing Administration discontemplates speculative lot sales and warns against the use of its approval for such purposes.

SLOW DOWN AT SUN DOWN!

Last year there were some 6,500 more deaths in automobile accidents during the hours of dusk and darkness than during the hours of daylight.

Which means that the chances of being killed in an automobile accident go up as the sun goes down.
